2. Key features of the credit product

The type of credit.	Running-account credit agreement
The total amount of credit. This means the amount of credit to be provided under the proposed credit agreement or the credit limit.	£2000
How and when credit would be provided.	Flex will be visible in your app after we sign the agreement. Flex can be used in three ways: • Flex a transaction up to 2 weeks later You can start moving transactions from your current account into Flex straight away. You can do this up to 2 weeks after making the transaction. Once you've moved a transaction, we'll pay the amount of the transaction into your current account. • Flex card You will have a virtual card to pay for transactions directly with a retailer. You can also request a physical card to pay for transactions. We refer to the Flex card as both the virtual card and physical card if you have one. • Transfer Money If eligible, you can use your Flex available credit to transfer money to your personal current account. You might also be able to transfer to third parties directly. We'll let you know in the app if you're eligible to transfer money.

	To use Flex, you'll need to have enough available credit limit to cover the full cost of the transaction, not including any interest you might owe. You'll also need to ensure the transaction doesn't take you over your payment limits (you'll find these in the app, they might change over time). The information in the section below only applies to using your Flex card and not if you flex a transaction up to 2 weeks later. How does the Flex card work? You'll need to select an instalment plan after making a payment on the Flex card. We'll send you reminders to do this. If you don't pick one, we'll automatically select the instalment plan which creates the lowest instalment amount available for the transaction. You may be able to select a default instalment plan for future transactions, if this option is available we'll tell you how it works in the app.
The duration of the credit agreement.	This agreement will have no fixed duration and will continue until you or we end it.
Repayments.	Monthly payments We'll automatically take your monthly payments on your chosen payment date each month, which covers all of your instalment plans. We may also let you repay your Flex balance using alternative payment methods, we'll let you know in app if that's available. Each month you'll need to make at least the minimum payment. This is calculated by: - dividing each transaction and any applicable interest by 24, and round this amount up to the nearest penny and to at least the minimum instalment of 50p; and - totalling this figure for each of your instalment plans. You can also choose to make overpayments. For example, you might choose to pay over a shorter period than the maximum available for a transaction. We'll first try and collect the overpayment but if we can't, we'll try and collect the minimum payment 7 days after the payment due date. You can change your payment amount at any time, as long as it's at least the minimum payment. As soon as you make a payment, you'll free up more of your credit limit which you can use for other transactions.
Your repayments will pay off what you owe in the following order.	Monthly payments We'll allocate your payments according to the instalment amount you've selected for each instalment plan.

Catching up on missed payments

If you're behind on your Flex payments, we'll allocate any payments towards your arrears, starting with the oldest arrears first.

Pay off extra

If you aren't behind on your Flex payments and pay more than the monthly payment, you may be able to choose how to allocate it in the app. If not, we'll allocate it to the instalment plan with the highest interest rate first (and the next highest, and so on). If all of your instalment plans have the same rate of interest, we'll allocate your payment to the oldest instalment plan first (and then the next oldest and so on).

If you pay more than the monthly payment, this won't change the amount you have to pay each month and you'll still need to make your next monthly payment. These extra payments will usually be allocated to the end of your selected plan – this means an extra payment might change the amount of your final instalment and the number of instalments you have to make on the plan the payment is allocated to.

Pay off early

We might give you the option of choosing whether the payment is allocated to the next monthly payment. If we give you that option, we'll tell you about it in the app.

Closed Accounts

If your Monzo current account is closed then we will apply any payments to your next monthly payment.

The total amount you will have to pay.

This means the amount you have borrowed plus interest and other costs.

£2250.40 using APR assumptions

This figure assumes that:

- you immediately use Flex to make a transaction which is the value of your entire limit;
- you repay the instalment plan over 12 equal monthly instalments;
- you don't use Monzo Flex to create any more instalment plans within that 12 month period;
- the interest rate we charge doesn't change.

3. Costs of the credit

The rates of interest which apply to the credit agreement.	Annual simple interest rate 21.69% (variable) We'll calculate any interest you owe based on the daily total of your Flex balance at midnight UTC each day. We might change this interest rate for the reasons set out in your credit agreement. From time to time, we might offer you Promotions, such as a reduced rate of interest or 0% interest on some instalment plans. We'll tell you about these in the app.
Annual Percentage Rate of Charge (APR). This is the total cost expressed as an annual percentage of the total amount of credit. The APR is there to help you compare different offers	24.0% APR (variable) This figure assumes that: • you immediately use Flex to make a transaction which is the value of your entire limit; • you repay the instalment plan over 12 equal monthly instalments; • you don't use Flex to create any more instalment plans within that 12 month period; • the interest rate we charge doesn't change.
Related costs
Any other costs deriving from the credit agreement.	We'll charge you a fee to transfer money. If you choose an instalment plan with interest, we'll charge interest on the amount you transfer and the fee. The fee will be 3% of the transaction, subject to a minimum fee of £0.01. We may offer promotions on the fee from time to time, and we'll let you know what the fee is in the app before you transfer money. We may introduce a minimum transfer amount that applies each time you want to transfer money. If we do, we'll let you know the minimum amount in the app.
Replacement physical card.	We'll give you up to two replacement cards a year, for any reason. After that it's £5 per card for any extras if you lose or damage it. We'll never charge you for replacements where your card expires, is faulty when you receive it, has been stolen or swallowed by an ATM, or if we've cancelled it because we're concerned about fraud.
Costs in the case of late payments.	There are no charges for late or missed payments. We'll charge interest on your Flex balance at the rate above. We don't charge interest on interest, or interest on late payments. However, if you haven't paid within 7 days of the due date, we'll switch your monthly payments to the minimum payment across all your instalment plans, which will increase the length of your instalment plans to the maximum period available. You'll owe interest at the standard rate from the date of the switch. If you miss a first instalment for a transaction on a Promotional rate then you'll owe interest on the entire amount from the date of the transaction. You'll also owe interest on transactions on a Promotional rate which are not yet due at the time of the missed instalment, from the date of the transaction.

Consequences of missing payments.	Missing payments could have severe consequences including: • reporting you to the Credit Reference Agency which may impact your credit rating and make it more difficult to get credit in the future; and • legal proceedings being taken against you to recover the balance.
